National Climate Change Action Plan 2013-2017

Climate change is a global emergency that requires action between all nations. That's why today the Guardian has joined with more than 30 newspapers and media organisations in more than 20 countries to present a common view about what needs to be done to stop the planet hurtling towards the point of no return - where climate chaos becomes irreversible. ➔

Collaboration

combine them but keep the fighting scenes a bit lowkey

Panagiotis Our main idea was for every hero to have a superpower So we can do that just not to cross the line

Even if that would be really interesting

I don't think they will approve

We can make them use the superpowers to fight against the climate instead of the villain, and just subdue the villain without fighting

Like L pollut

Hi I am panagiotis from Cyprus And I love to play football whenever I am not on a Netflix marathon. Btw we have some ideas about the comic would you like us to share them or do you have your own plot?

I'm Dessy from the Netherlands, I love dancing. Yes please share them, our idea was that every country have their own heroes and they'll join forces together to fight a global problem, that way it's international and it shows the collaboration even in the comic

Summary of the meeting this where he recruits a hero from every country(your own heroes from your countries and ours) The other three groups travel around the world. The main character then(Eric) merges the trash heroes with the 3 new recruits and do the same actions as in the first idea to save the planet.

The end is the same As in the end the heroes make the world to follow their lead And anyone who wants to save the planet by making it a life cause can be considered as a trash hero

Amanda (a girl from Amazon) joined them as the jungle is under a threat as well .Then William joined a guy from Antarctica as his natural habitat is being destroyed by global warming.Then an African girl called Zoe joined them and an Asian girl as well. So there is a hero from each continent and together joined forces to stop the organisation who wanted to destroy planet earth and its commander paul(who in reality is human actions that harm the planet).

I know it's a bit too much We also have made a couple of characters

Sustainability

Taking our collaboration beyond the product

- Staying in touch ensuring continual positive impact
- Our comic = our product
- sequel to the story
- Educational tool
- Fun comic and learning in one

*Strong teamwork
long lasting results*

Personal Gain

This project and collaboration has a wonderful learning opportunity

Aside from this project being sustainable and impactful, this collaboration has been a wonderful way for us students to strengthen our skills and knowledge. We've been able to view things from different perspectives and this project has been an incredible experience for all the students involved, contributing to our own as well as our schools development.

Thank you!

An innovative way to spread awareness about this gigantic problem, engaging with its readers in a creative way that calls them to action.
